THE 1974
MALVERNIAN

MALVERN PREPARATORY SCHOOL

MALVERN, PENNSYLVANIA

STAFF

The 1974 Malvernian staff was beseiged with organizational problems from the beginning of the year. Its first problem—How do you top a 50th Anniversary Issue? After a few meetings it had been determined what we needed was, like Ford, " A Better Idea." It is hoped that the reader of this yearbook can discern that our book does not look or speak in terms of what was Malvern but rather what it is and growing to be. It is a new beginning—a number one of the second fifty, so to speak.

We wanted this book to be outstanding in its quality and that begins with pictures. Mr. Doyle, moderator, secured the services of Mr. Frederick Pfaff, a studio photographer of meticulous quality, as our major image maker. Be assured that a picture of uneven quality is not the work of Mr. Pfaff but the improving work of our amateur staff. We know that working with a small studio photographer would present certain risks to deadlines and certain coverage but we thought the quality would certainly be better than a "yearbook mill." We are sure that you have found the added wait well worth the time needed to produce fine quality.

Another of our problems was the school seal. The only place it hasn't been is on the spine. We feel proud to initiate a new and creative departure in cover design of the Malvernian.

Not the least of areas of anxiety was the underclassmen paperbacks. Some page sacrifice, some benificent donors and the advice of Mr. John Ursprung and Mr. Geoff Meyer of Cooke Publishing provided us all with a hardbound issue.

We, the staff, had our moments too. We have gotten through broken communications, summer vacations, incompatible employment hours, fouled typewriters and a host of other yearbook snafu's to get-it-all-together. And in the end we are proud.

Appreciation for their work is extended to the entire staff especially: Tom Mahoney, Tom Petralla, Hy DePamphilis, Bill Connor and the perennial Villa Maria typists. A most special extension of our appreciation and admiration is to Mr. Geoff Meyer for his numerous hours of labor and advice.

The class of '74 is different. But why not? Tempora Mutantur, et nos cum illis! The world changes—and Malvern and its present Senior class have kept astride those changes.

These men enter colleges and universities of outstanding reputation. Malvern's quality has made this class acceptable to these institutions. But in addition, their personal excellence made their college admission doubly possible. As we see in the Senior Directory their diversity of college choice reflects the personal differences which bespeak the multiplicity of their career thoughts.

Time is both their defender and their challenge and only in the years to come will they truly and fully mirror the essence of the education they received at Malvern Prep.

Times will continue to change and these men with them, but may The Class of '74 never change so much as to forget that the seeds of change were sown at Malvern Prep.

Apart from classrooms, lockers and locker rooms come the opportunities for growth and avocational interests. Activities provide enthusiasm, fun and interest for the many facets that are Malvern.

Some former activities lay rather dormant over the year—others were only weakly pursued. Future years must seek to revitalize all the traditional activities and involvement so that total growth follows from class to class.

Although the activities were comparatively few in number, those that took place drew swarms of students to them and enthusiasm was overwhelming. Who can forget the Joe Hayes "Extravaganza"? It brought "onto the boards" talented and less-talented only to furnish all with more fun than anyone ever expected.

If sports builds strength of mind and muscle, it is Activities that build a school's esprit de corps.

In these men reside the future pride and hopes of all the Malvern men have gone before and who will come after them. They are concerned, capable and already imbued with the spirit of Malvern. They are the evidence of the thrust that Malvern Prep School is making academically, athletically and traditionally.

These Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen are the dynamos that will be Malvern's energy for the future. These Underclassmen recognize that "hope without work is a dream." Their achievements in many areas of school life have already proved that the dream is fast becoming a reality.

In our 73-74 sports season Malvern Prep has again produced superlative teams in its athletics. One or other of our squads usually climb to the top of the competition with a championship. Our Basketball Team did just that. The Football Friars always threaten to grab a championship.

Other sports here—Track and Wrestling for example—show outstanding growth with each passing season. Our reputation draws some of the finest young athletes in the area to our teams.

After many years Malvern Prep has seen its athletic direction go positively forward with a determination that sparkles with new life. No longer do we struggle. We are of age. Another era has opened and our athletes, coaches and facilities stride side by side with the best academic sports competition.

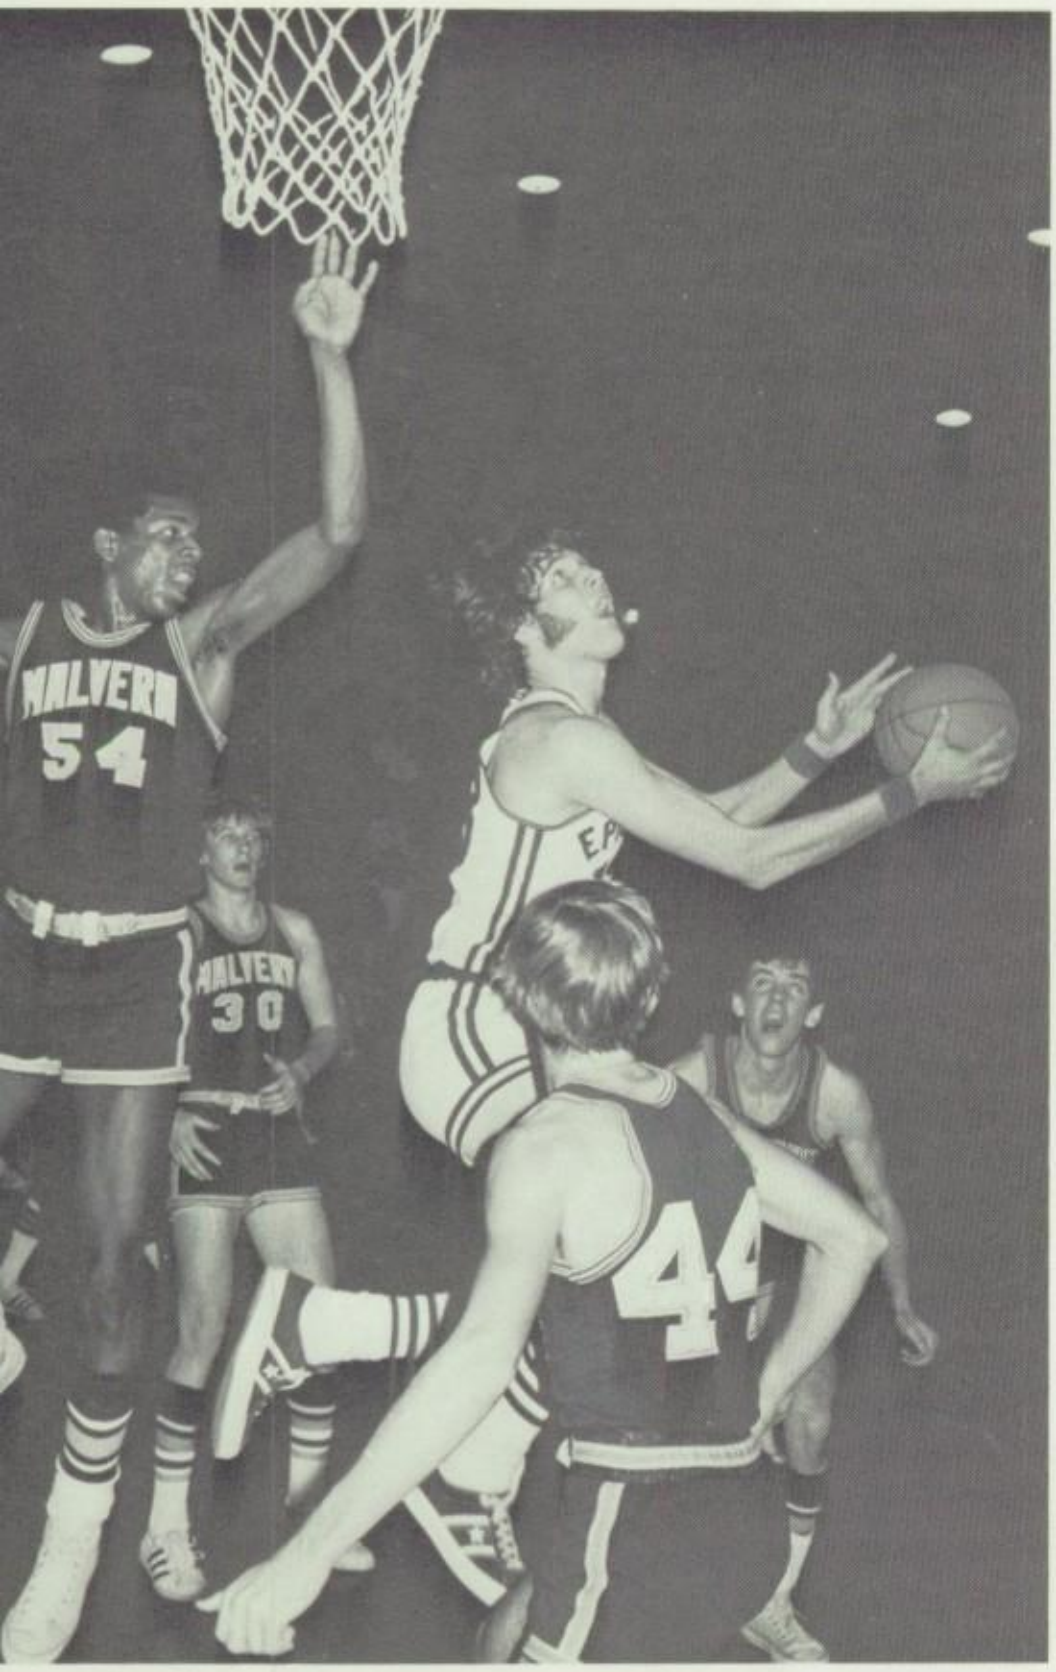
Bottom: A headless Wally Shields goes up for two.



Coach Dan Kelly led the Malvern Friars into the national and local spotlight in 1973-74 season while posting a 25-1 record.

As the pre-season practice unfolded. Coach Kelly found his team had the potential to be perhaps the best in the long history of successful Friar teams. With a strong nucleus of players including, John Wilcox, Wally Shields, Steve Donnelly an Joe Carney centered around High School All-American Charles Floyd it appeared that success would be the result of many hours of practice and team play. As was expected the team roared thru the season backing up one victory with another and were to fall only once to Roman, but, by a mere point.

Skillful coaching and precise execution led this Friar team to national prominence and locally they ranked at the top all year. Charles Floyd brought recognition and praise to Malvern being named High School All-American and set a precedent for those to admire in Malvern's years to come.

With Coach Kelly leading these Friars, with the enthusiasm and determination he showed as a Malvern and St. Joseph's star this team had all the elements of greatness. With other impressive victories in the Seagull and Knights of Columbus Tournaments to add to the other records, Malvern Basketball made its point in 73-74. WE ARE NUMBER 1.

FOOTBALL

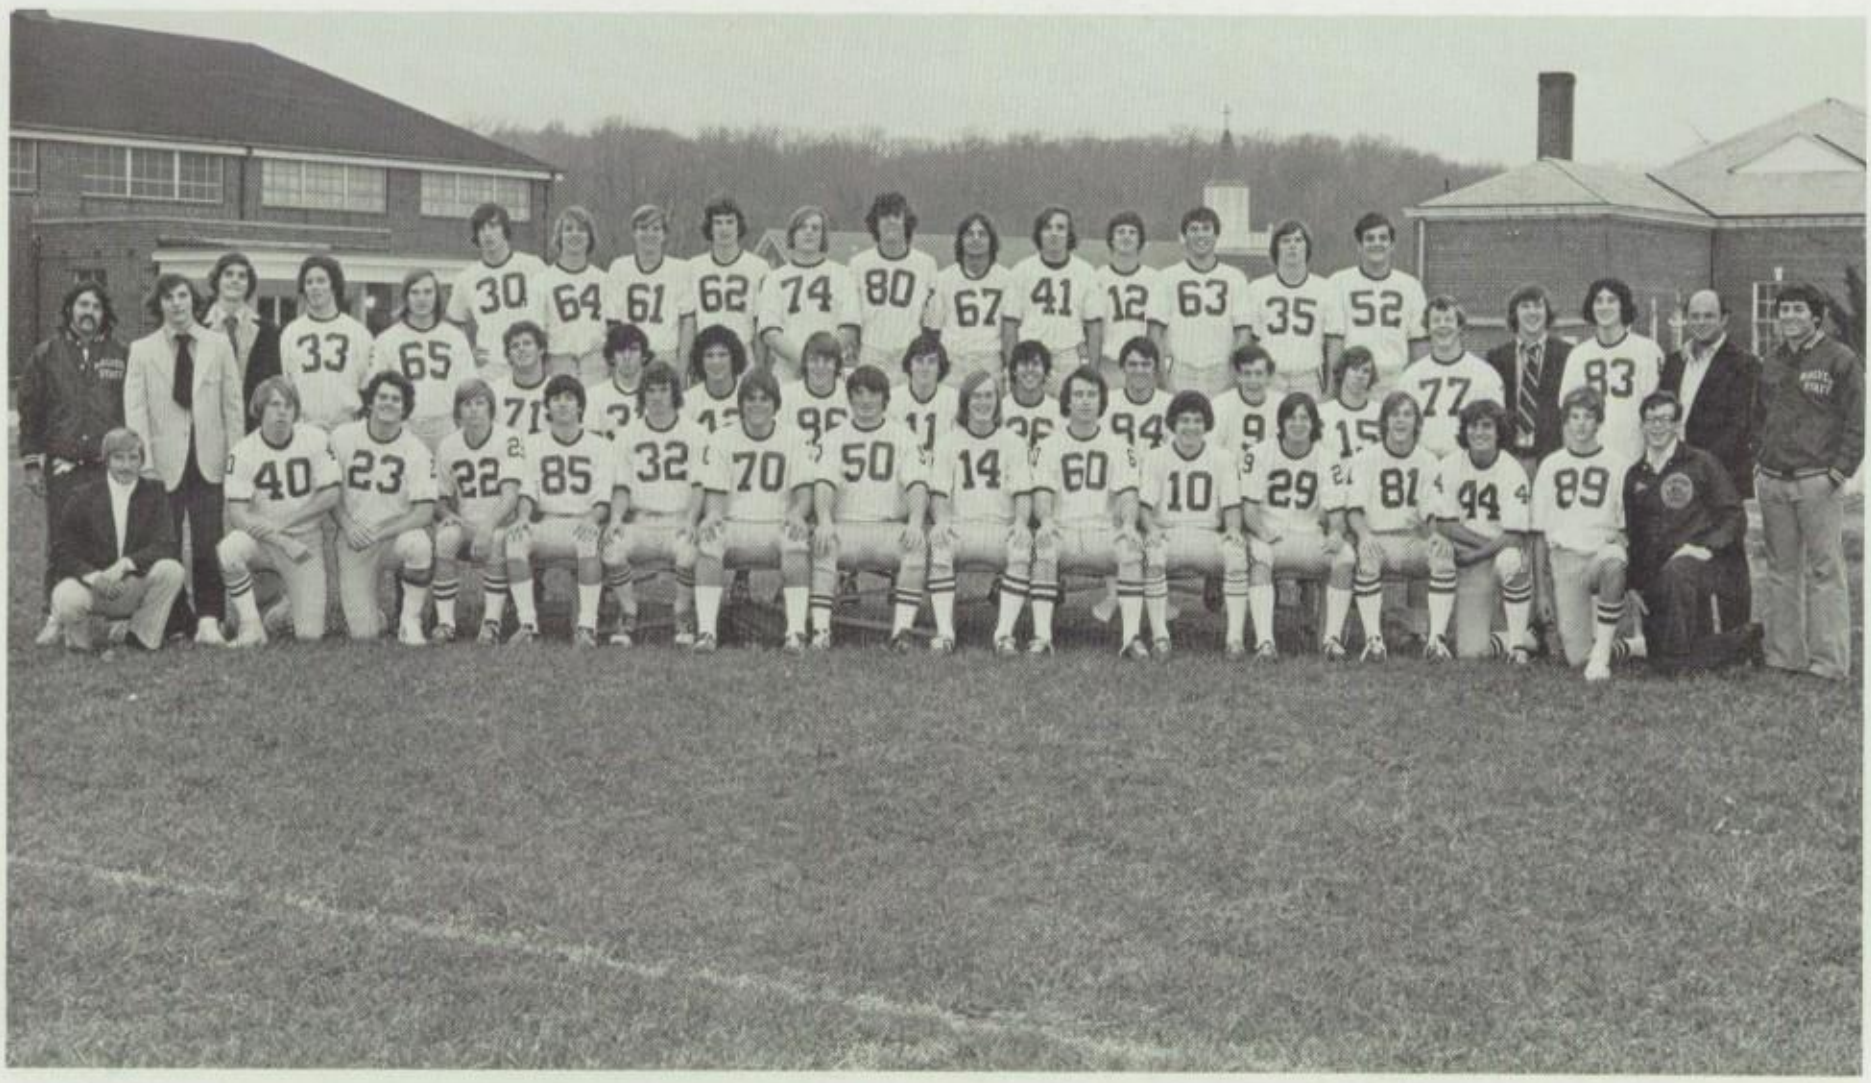
To look at this years' record alone does not do the football team justice. The first loss of the season was to a very highly rated St. Mark's and the team lost a tough game to highly rated Germantown Academy in the final minute. Considering these facts and also looking at Malvern's very respectable place in the area chart ratings all season long, one may get a true picture of the ability and success of this years' team. The team will lose a number of players to graduation: notably, Jim Welsh, Joe Sheridan (Inter-Ac MVP), and four-year standout Wally Shields (Malvern MVP).

With much experience returning, the chances of next years' team repeating the success that was enjoyed this season are excellent.



First Row: Asst. Coach Val Erdnanis, B. Maguire, W. Shields, R. Devine, F. Burnhart, E. McGrath, J. Koziol, M. O'Brien, J. Sheridan, J. Welsh, T. Howley, D. O'Connor, P. Nolan, J. Delafrance, G. SWIMMING

Coach Paul Hornsleth checks the time.

National Honors won by Greg Jagenberg and the All-American status won by four other swimmers, demonstrated the quality of this year's team.

While the Inter-Ac Championship eluded us, we did win recognition in The National Catholics and The Eastern Scholastics, by placing 4th and 5th respectively. This was due mainly to the efforts of our All-Americans. Future rebuilding depends on the looked-for dedication to be found in the unity of the team as a whole. The tradition of fine swimming teams at Malvern will be as prominent in the years to come as it has been in the past.

ICE HOCKEY

Even though Malvern fielded a young squad this year, the team scored impressive victories over tough opponents Great Valley, Swarthmore, Episcopal, and St. Joseph's Prep. They also had no problem with the Alumni, winning that match 7 to 2. Throughout the season there was much improvement by both Goaltenders, Drew Lombardi and Vince Ponticello. Hustle was consistently shown by sophomore wing Joe Milani. For the second year in a row, Tom James received The Most Improved Player Award. Singled out by the leagues players and coaches, defenseman Tim Ponticello was unanimously elected an All-Star. With most of the team returning next year the outlook for Ice-Hockey is bright. The individual dedication and desire of K. Wright, M. Hayden, I. Campbell, E. Drueding, and T. Monaco will play an important role in next years success or failure.

WRESTLING

The 1973-74 Wrestling Team at Malvern was, in the words of Coach Ted Alex, "not a strong team but some strong and talented individuals." It seems every time Coach Alex builds the nucleus of a great up-coming-team—they graduate! So it happens again, graduating are, Captains Bruce Clark, Kevin O'Connor, and Kelley Collins, three devoted athletes. The '75 season will Miss the consistent points garnered by Ernie Marmer and Mike O'Brien. Going also is the much talented but injury ridden Eric Shultz.

While next year's team will re-build again, they will have the advantage of some very seasoned contortioners.

BASEBALL

Our fielders and sluggers improved as the season progressed. The score board tallied only numbers, while individual development was evident to teammates and spectators alike. Weather plagued the team with an improper practice schedule. Much credit is due the baseball team because of their persistance throughout the season. Pat Cook, Joe Sheridan, and Norm Kronmiller provided the inspiration and gave the desire to others on the team to prevent a ruined season. Next year's squad should show the leadership of such men as Maguire, Price, Devine and Sheridan.

LACROSSE

This season the lacrosse team got off to a brilliant start by defeating 1973 State Champs, Henderson High School, in a grueling overtime match on a muddy field; the score was 4 to 3. Unfortunately, with the exception of easy wins over Springfield High School and Ridley High School, from then on in the fierceness of the competition was felt. Full credit must be given to Tom Howley, who was voted to the Secondary School's All American team, for the very important spirit and leadership he showed this season.

GOLF

With only two returning veterans,' Tom Petrella and Kemper Ryan the Golf Team experienced a building year on its way to a respectable 6 and 8 season. Not to be discouraged Father Duff led the team practices at Waynesborough Country Club. Fine performances were consistently turned in by; Tom petrella, Kemper Ryan, Bill Mangon, Paul Bevilacqua, Tom Monaco, and of course the perennial Most Valuable Golfer Bill Cutair.

TENNIS

The tennis team was by far the youngest team on campus this year. It counted as members no seniors, and only three juniors, the balance of the team being made up of sophomores and freshmen. The team naturally experienced a building season, often at the expense of its foes in the toughest tennis league in the area, the Inter-Ac.

Number one man, Dan McDevitt, played very well as did Bill Brown, Henry Veitz (most improved), and Ed Dreuding.

The doubles were manned by Pat Hutchinson, Terry Leahy, Skip Craft, Greg Jeckovich, Tom Willcox, and Jerry Hannold. Of course, with a completely intact returning team the chances for a successful season next year are quite good.

CROSS COUNTRY

Victory was in the air as the Malvern Cross Country team opened its 1973 campaign. Despite the departure of standout John Clark, the vast majority of 1972 lettermen were returning and the team's prospects appeared excellent. Hampered by league restrictions on summer practice, the team dropped early decisions to Roman Catholic, St. Mark's, and Lower Merion. The Friars responded to the challenge, however, and began two-a-day practice sessions. The work payed off and the team returned to competition in top form opening their league season with a trouncing of Chestnut Hill. Later the same week the team literally ran away with the Mitchell Invitational as Paul Celentano, Jim Matthews, and Steve Clarke paced the team with their 2,5,6 finish. Returning to their dual meet schedule, Malvern rolled over Inter-Ac opponents Germantown and Penn Charter. Stepping back into area wide competition, the Friars finished a strong third in the prestigious Catholic War Veterans meet mainly due to great performances by Paul Celentano and Frosh sensation Steve Clarke. Clarke, a consistent scorer for the Friars, set a new Freshman record for the Malvern course. Stopping only long enough to demolish Williamson Trade in a non-league contest, the Friars concentrated on Episcopal for the league crown.

Celentano, Matthews, Clarke, Siegfried, and company start another fast paced contest.

True to form; as the team arrived at the Episcopal course the weather turned cold and snow was falling as the race began. Through 2 miles no one could pick a winner as the lead constantly changed hands. Cheers went up as Celentano won in a record setting time. To claim the victory, however, the first five Friar runners had to finish before Episcopal's first five had covered the distance. After 4 runners from each team had finished, the score was deadlocked. 100 yards from the tape it was a battle of the fifth men until suddenly, a stumble, the Episcopal runner gained a step, and it was over. The Churchmen had the championship 27-28. Dejected but not despondent, the Friars bounced back to overwhelm a strong Haverford team to close out the league season. The season finale was still to come, however, as the Malvern team scored an impressive victory in the Temple Invitational placing 4 runners in the top ten. As a result Jim Matthews and Paul Celentano were named to the Inquirer All-Area team, the only Inter-Ac runners to be so honored, perhaps some consolation for the championship that should have been.

TRACK

As usually happens when a school has a strong cross country program, Malvern's greatest success in its 1973-74 Indoor Track season was due to a strong corps of distance runners. Without the services of a single superstar as in the past, the Friars had to rely on their depth and in doing so, came up with consistently strong performances in the longer relay events. The Distance Medley team of Jim Matthews, Mike Klug, Barry Siegfried, and Paul Celentano began the season with a medal winning performance. After several more weeks of preparation, the same team, with Jeff Clarke in for Klug, travelled to the Lawrenceville Relays and emerged victorious over several of the strongest Prep School teams in the area. By the end of the season, it appeared as if the team would have to be content with its relay successes until Senior Jim Matthews grabbed an individual medal in the 1000, and Frosh Steve Clarke set a new track record enroute to his gold in the novice two mile event.

Though the list of winners was not long, strong performances by these relay men along with others such as Bill Connor, Ray Deatherage, Ray Joson; and field men Herb Beck and Eric Schultz pointed the way to a successful outdoor season to come.

The general rule that seemed to apply to Malvern's track team during the spring season was that when they won, they won big, but when they lost, well . . .

With the exception of a heartbreaking one point loss to Haverford, and the Germantown meet where the Friars just couldn't handle the Patriot sprinters, the meets were never close. Against St. Mark's and Episcopal the Friars saw themselves dissolve despite strong individual performances by the Mile trio of Celentano, Montes, and Matthews; two-mile standout Steve Clarke vaulter Eric Schultz. In addition, Senior Jeff Clarke was a valuable addition to Malvern's complement of middle distance men in the 440 and 330 hurdles. The team had its moments, though, as they ran over Penn Charter and Chestnut Hill. Against the latter, the Friars won every event save the hurdles and swept several races.

The dual meet season, though, was merely a tune up for the Inter-Ac championship where the Friars displayed a fine group of performers. Herb Beck and Ray Joson started things off with fine showings in the Shot Put and the 100 respectively. The team began to shine in the distance events as Celentano, Montes, and Matthews dominated the Mile with their 2,3,5, finish. Steve Clarke then took over and ran away with the two mile keeping his unbeaten streak for the fourth straight year succeeding brother John, the champion in 1973. Youth continued to Malvern's cry as Soph Bob Keithley outkicked a class field to grab the silver in the 880. Senior Eric Schultz rounded out the day remaining unbeaten in the Pole Vault and bringing Malvern their first gold.

Thanks to the intensive recruitment campaign of Coach Bill Black, the team abounded with newcomers, many of them underclassmen, who will form the nucleus for many great teams to come.

The Faculty of any school must be the heart that gives the institution its life. Malvern's Faculty with dedication, work and supervision is building a spirit—a vibrant, living relationship among student, teacher, and school. The mix becomes part of the man. The result—a unified organism for the future. Malvern is as much its teachers as it is its students.

From these men have come those values which will be pivotal throughout the lives of students. To a man this faculty has striven to manifest the convictions by which it has educated the young men it teaches. No mere word of mouth instruction would suffice for these men, only a living example would satisfy them.

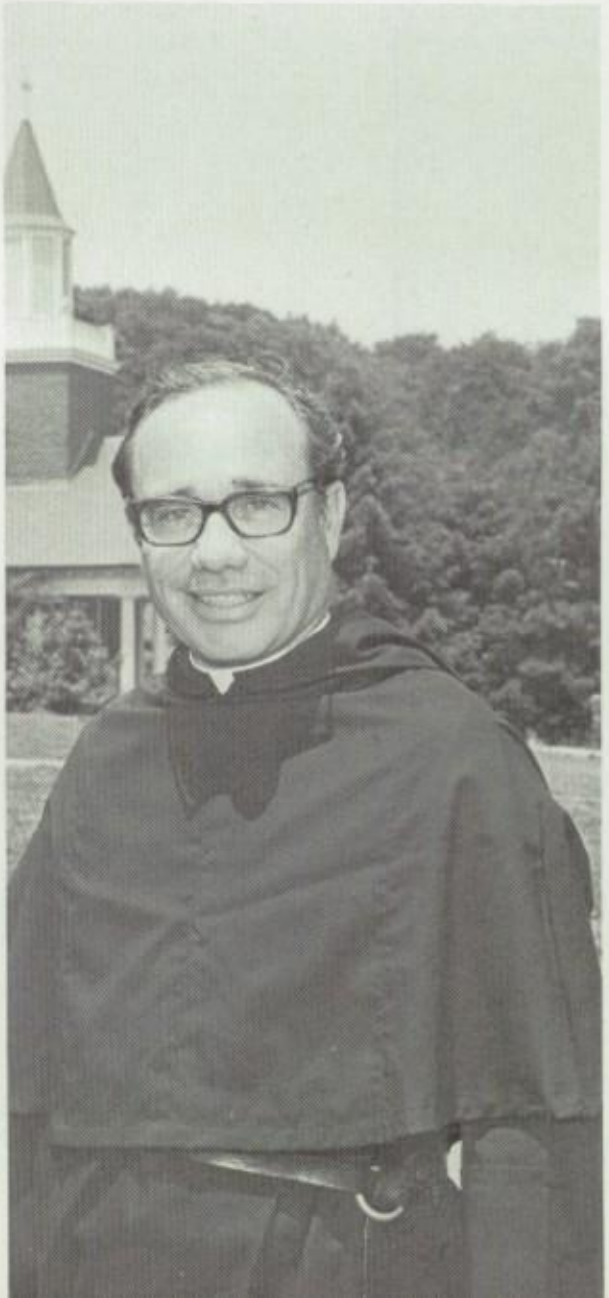
HEADMASTER

As one glances at the surrounding pictures you can see captured the many moods of our new headmaster Rev. David J. Duffy, O.S.A. Perhaps one mood not well displayed here is the headmaster's great concern and homage for Malvern. Father has had this imbued spirit since before his graduation from our halls in 1948. To the leadership of our community, Father brings his loyalty, determination and experience—all manifested in his successful career as a teacher at Monsignor Bonner, its well remembered principal and his high position of advisory on the Provincial's Staff. Malvern has need of such a well qualified man.

In less than a year after assuming the helm from Rev. Thomas A. Kelly, he has made positive steerings for the course of Malvern's future. He has continued and completed the preparations for Middle States Evaluation begun by Father Kelly. He has helped to control an old arch-enemy—the budget. Even making great sacrifices in the area of budget, he has kept his mind on the quality Malvern has come to expect. He has increased enrollment at a time when private institutions are in grave difficulty. He has surrounded himself with exemplary administrators and faculty to assist him in reaching the noble ideals that are Malvern's.

—David J. Duffy, O.S.A. has an obvious love and devotion towards all of us in the Malvern charisma–parents, teachers, and students. We trust he feels the same commitment extended to him by everyone of us.



Awarding a diploma to a graduate are two closely affiliated with the Headmaster. They are Rev. William J. Carney, Assistant Principal and Rev. Richard D. Breslin, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

THE ALUMNI OF

FIFTY YEARS OF MALVERN

WELCOMES THE MEMBERS

OF THE

FIFTY-FIRST GRADUATING CLASS

TO OUR DISTINGUISHED RANKS

Congratulations on Fifty Years

from

The Order of St. Augustine Villanova University and the

Faculty of Malvern Preparatory School

the best on the Main Line

I have been associated with Malvern for seventeen years now. I spent four years here as a plugging student, four more as an alumnus at college, who always came back to visit faculty and teams on vacation; and the last nine years as a member of its distinguished faculty.

I realize this page is usually a recapitulation on the feelings of the graduating class but I hope you will permit me to say my own farewell. I am confident it renders much the same opinion of the fine class of '74.

I am leaving Malvern's Faculty not with pleasure but with the understanding of what has to be. I have much to thank my alma mater for. It gave me a great education but more its spirit. It gave me a sense of values I will never relinquish. These came from its Catholicity and concerned, aware faculty. It gave me more than one thousand students in whom I have tried to instill not only the knowledge of my field but also the great pride I have for this great school.

I never have stopped growing as a person and as a professional since my association with Malvern so I shall never disassociate myself. Like this graduating class, my own and some fifty others I'll be back to see how my old school is coming along.

My invitation is assuridly still open to faculty, alumni and students to join me in my livingroom for congenial sessions about everything that makes Malvern such an admirable place to have been.
